Department of Revenue Launches Redesigned Web Site

ATLANTA – In an ongoing effort to enhance customer service, the Georgia Department of Revenue has launched its redesigned web site, which features expanded contact information, appearance upgrades and improved navigational tools.

“We believe individuals visiting our site will find it more visually appealing and easier to locate answers to their tax questions,” said Revenue Commissioner Bart L. Graham.

Visitors to the site can locate information by broad general terms like individual tax, corporate tax, sales and use tax, or by tax division. The site also contains downloadable forms and publications and the latest news from the Georgia Department of Revenue.

“If taxpayers cannot find the information they are seeking, the site has email links and direct telephone numbers to Department representatives who can provide the information,” added Commissioner Graham.

The Department’s web site address is www.gatax.org.
